Designed to give you hands-on experience and let you become part of the surgical experience, or "see" the work of a surgeon and his team, the OrthoPilot Elite VR on your Oculus Quest or Rift will fully immerse you into the environment of an orthopaedic surgical team. The OrthoPilot Elite VR simulation was designed and engineered by ALE3STVR in partnership with B. Braun and Amasystem VR. It includes high quality content and advanced rendering to simulate the experience of an orthopaedic surgery. It was developed to offer a complete solution for medical centers as well as for educational centers that wish to innovate. Features AESCULAP® OrthoPilot® Elite VR Palpation: - Teleoperated by AESCULAP® OrthoPilot® Elite - Includes the different components and tools necessary for orthopaedic surgeries - Teleoperated by a surgeon - High quality representation of the environment and the team - Ability to listen to the cardiac monitor Requirements To Compete - Oculus Quest / Rift headset - A computer with an Oculus application or a computer with a high definition display. If you wish to install the game, visit the Oculus store. If you wish to download the game, please fill in the form. The present invention relates to an ink-jet printing method for forming an image on a printing medium such as paper by ejecting ink from a printhead. Conventional ink-jet printing methods are roughly classified into two systems, a bubble-jet system and a thermal ink-jet system. According to the bubble-jet system, the ink is boiled to generate bubbles in the ink and the ink is ejected from the printhead by the pressure of the bubbles. According to the thermal ink-jet system, the ink is heated to form bubbles on the surface of the printhead and the ink is ejected from the printhead by the pressure of the bubbles. In order to form an image with high image quality by an ink-jet printing method, it is necessary to prevent leakage of the ink which is ejected from the printhead. For this purpose, as the printhead, an ink-jet printhead has been developed in which liquid-ejecting holes are formed in a base material by light curing of an electroresist material, and an electrode is formed on the inner wall of each liquid-ejecting hole by utilizing an ink-jet printing method, and a printing operation

You are Marie Louise Leboeuf, a survivor in a world turned upside down by World War 2 and the outbreak of the undead. Being one of the few remaining human survivors in France, you've been forced to band together with an unlikely group to combat the rising darkness to prevent the world from falling to ZERO. To do so, you will have to join forces with band of survivors, including the immensely talented orphan Yvette Dombro and adventurer Étienne Cartier. The conditions in the French countryside are terrifying. Amidst the chaos and despair, one might be led to believe that the next few days will be the end of the world. The horrific zombie hordes continue to intensify, and around you, more and more survivors are turning into zombies. Worse yet, a mysterious entity called "ZERO" has taken control of France, and, in their mission of invading Earth, they have pledged to eliminate all life on the planet. It is up to you and your group to prevent this from happening. Take the role of key characters to make sure mankind can survive. Each of your actions will have a significant impact on the world. Is humanity at its last gasp? Will the world fall into darkness? OF THE LAW Episode 1 Spoiler(Move your mouse to the spoiler area to reveal the content)Show Spoiler*Hide Spoiler There is nothing worse than a bad lawyer! I do not know about you, but I try hard to stay out of trouble. I have learned my lesson after years and years of being a lawyer, that sometimes the best defense attorney is "I am not your lawyer". But I am blessed to have my friend Mary, a damn good lawyer who always tells me to take the high road in life. However, to be truthful, there are only three people I know for sure my dad will help me with anything: Mary, my sister Greta, and my brother John. John kept a very low profile for the first 20 years of his life. All we knew was that he had a huge heart. When I came along he started to make an effort to get to know me and about a year ago he astonished us all when he announced his engagement to Mary. Because of John's past actions, we all wondered if he and Mary would make it work. Despite his not living with us for 8 years, I had always considered him part of our family. When we decided to have a sister's birthday party in his honor, I hoped that he would come out of hiding and smile a little, so no one would expect him to start acting like a normal 16 year old. So when he sat down next to me on the sofa I was floored. I almost swallowed my pants when I noticed his amazing hickey and the ugly date-tatted clothes he was wearing. For the first time in 2 decades, I saw not only the result of his years on the streets, but I saw the man himself. Never before had I seen his angry eyes or heard the sad melody of a lost soul. Mary had told me he was going through a hard time and asked me to try and not judge him. She assured me that he was just a teenager with a fucked up life. No one knows how hard the kid has had it until they have sat across from him for a half-hour, watching him cry like he had just lost his best friend. Aunt Mary came in right after him. She has a tendency to enjoy her first beer during the early hours of the morning when she greets me and wakes me up. It must be contagious because ever since Greta moved out it's been
