I'd expect to see much more usage of distributed systems when we have fully distributed datacenters: [In addition, I'm disappointed that the new API has significant restrictions like not being able to define indices and groups: [~~~ adamzegelin Very true, I was disappointed at that last point as well. You're right about the distributed system though. ~~~ judofyr That's true, but only on the day that you setup your clusters. ~~~ adamzegelin Exactly, a distributed system is only useful when your capacity exceeds your load. At that point, I'm not sure you have that much value from a distributed system. This is the point I'm trying to get at. The point of a distributed system like ES is to provide a high performance API that performs like a single system for a fraction of the cost (in terms of CAPEX/OPEX
