In a 2-on-2 match-up, you are asked to take your controller and mimic the movement of your rival. You do this by attacking and defending via swipes and tackles to the ball. The aim of the game is to complete a challenging series of goals whilst simulating the physical impact of the real-life players' actions. Unlike many other sports games, where the animations are done in-engine, the physics and movement in FIFA 22 are also powered by the movement data. This has a significant effect on the way you interact with the game. "FIFA® 22 is the first FIFA game to feature the new 'HyperMotion' technology. Using motion capture data from 22 players to power the gameplay, we've been able to create the most authentic football match experience to date. The animations look exactly like the actions of players from all corners of the world and even includes a new ball system that feels and looks like the real thing – so when you kick it, it feels like it was kicked in a FIFA match!" commented Daniel Santos, Creative Director. SketchUp for Android With the recent release of SketchUp Pro 2018 for Android on Google Play, designers and architects are now able to download the Android app and create 3D models from their smartphone, taking 3D building and designing to the next level. SketchUp Pro is easy to use. Beginners can pick up SketchUp and design even the most challenging projects. For more seasoned users, the app makes it easy to create virtual walk-throughs and renderings of a project using Google Earth Engine. The big news this week is the arrival of SketchUp Pro 2018 for Android on Google Play! Now with this release, you can browse the SketchUp Library and create new 3D models. Previously, you'd have to use a PC or Mac to view and manipulate the 3D models. Now, you can view models on Android. With the ability to create and manipulate models on Android, you can test them out in Google Earth Engine. This allows you to create 3D walkthroughs, 3D renders, or 3D animated building walkthroughs. On top of that, you can use SketchUp Pro to collaborate with clients and business partners. With collaborative workflows, you can share 3D models using an end-to-end process, from viewing and design to providing views, rendering, and exporting formats. You can even interact

Our powerful Frostbite engine allows for beautiful and realistic graphics, the more detailed textures, enhanced lighting, and increased draw distance that we get when we bring the virtual pitch to life. We want you to see, to feel, and to truly enjoy a football game that truly captures the sport we all love.
