

Introducing "HyperMotion Technology" for FIFA 22. On-ball movement is amplified up to four times more than ever before. One of the biggest pitches FIFA players have ever seen in a video game. Players have to make players run past them through tackles and aerial duels. "The difference is spectacular" "I'm confident that all the new features will benefit the game. I'm sure that fans will love it." "Before I introduce the game, I'd like to talk about the features which I think will enable the most diverse and entertaining games in the history of the franchise. I'd like to start with 'HyperMotion Technology,' which is a brand new feature for FIFA. It has been designed by our expert game designers, and it makes the game really feel like it's here and now. The most important part is that it's a live simulation, which means that the more players you have in the game, the more it will feel like it's you that's controlling your team in a real game, and not a pre-made one. We use motion capture data collected from 22 real-life players playing a complete, high-intensity football match in motion capture suits. The data collected from player movements, tackles, aerial duels and on-ball actions is used to power 'HyperMotion Technology.' As a result, we can get the ball to do the unexpected, which adds a whole new dimension to the gameplay. "The visual match-ups in FIFA have always been dynamic and unique, but with 'HyperMotion Technology' we've made the game even more unpredictable and we've given the fans the feeling that they are actually controlling the players in a real game. "The motion capture process is more advanced than ever, so we were able to collect data from thousands of players in FIFA 21. This data was then used to create a human-like animation of those players. If I showed you one, say, Charlie Adam, you'd never guess it was a computer-made player. Even though he takes some very unusual movements, he looks very human. The same goes for all the new players we have, from Thierry Henry to Paul Pogba. We've made all of them look so natural, and yet they still
