I'm not sure if the wait will be worth it though. The UI has always been bloated in general. And well not being able to use the UI of any other phone besides the one you made them on is kind of stupid. They say this is a matter of security, but other than that what security purpose does it serve to force you to use specific hardware? Also it's not like you can't make more. In general I expected less and less BS from Google. But this is getting ridiculous. And it's Google. ----- genjipress > _We look forward to discussing with the community on how we can work together > to develop Android further._ So they're just playing "nice" and letting the rest of the world do the hard work, then swoop in with (hop

I didn't have any previous experience with FS9.A new biocontrol and plant growth-promoting bacterium to protect soybean from soybean cyst nematode (Heterodera glycines). A biocontrol agent, capable of both protecting soybean from soybean cyst nematode (Heterodera glycines) and inducing soybean growth, was isolated from soybean root-knot nematode (Meloidogyne javanica) and named as J3(RYM). The biocontrol potential of J3(RYM) was determined through soybean growth and the soybean cyst nematode (H. glycines) reduction. J3(RYM) inoculation showed strong soybean growth promotion when the nematodes inoculated at the early stage of seedlings was lower than 10(5). Interestingly, J3(RYM) inoculation significantly reduced soybean cyst nematode (H. glycines) infestations up to 22.4% when the soybean plant was infested at the late stage of seedlings. This was similar to, or even higher than, the cyst nematode reduction results with some known biocontrol agents
