I'm Rolando and I'm part of the team that will be making this game. The story so far: You wake up and go to school everyday. The only difference is that your life is not real and you're in a dream. On your way to school you pass a soccer game. You decide to play a little to kill time. You notice there are a couple of unexpected talents amongst the players. The game ends in a championship and all the players try to make a choice. Who's going to win the game? How? Will you decide? From here, your world goes through a strange adventure. With crazy things happening around you and lots of twists. We're not ready to share more info yet. For now I can tell you that you can make relationships with other players in your dreams. You don't have to follow

Features Key:

80+ new words - 100 new words as you proceed through the game.

50+ new categories - 50 new categories including sports, tech, household, government, life, and more. Search for your new favorite one.

10+ new pictures - New design images, each containing 10 new words. Enjoy!

A new mega word list - This mega list contains the words in categories you've just played, from sports to slang. (Swedish words in bold. There are 90 or so more.)

How It Works

Easy right? The catch is to not only get the picture and the line right, but also get there before you run out of time.

After playing each level, you can take at to find the right picture and the right line of words to best describe what you're reading. A bar will appear below each letter, gradually building up, as you continue to play, to cover the entire letters as it counts down toward zero.

How to Play

To play, drag and drop the letters onto the numbered bar below, in the right order. You have 5 seconds to see each letter on the bar. When it stops at a certain letter, it triggers that word. Play the word as many times as the bar shows. When all the letters have been played, you've completed a difficult enough word, you can click Buy on that letter and have the game show it to you.

How to Play

-To play, drag and drop the letters onto the numbered bar below, in the right order. -You have 5 seconds to see each letter on the bar. -When it stops at a certain letter, it triggers that word. -Play

Shinsou no Raiyou is a VR game that provides the player a feeling of riding a real scooter from the real streets of Japan, while traveling around in the middle of the summer vacation. The game is based on the real city of Shinsou, where, on quiet summer nights, you could hear the kids shouting the sakura and shooting a cherry blossom at the cypress trees. The world of Shinsou is located in a beach town called Kawachi. To go back home from the summer vacation, the player will ride the scooter from the busy streets of Kawachi in the real world. On the way, there will be exciting situations where the player may encounter the objects from reality that are not part of the game. Although the game is only available in VR mode, you can also take pictures with your smartphone and transfer them to the game. KAWACHI, on a warm summer night The last cherry blossom shot : I love it! This is a game that is designed for anyone who has a love for these moments and the fantasy of riding a real scooter on the streets. Getting Started: Video: 1. Optimal Game Settings are listed 2. Case removed. 3. View video with its original aspect ratio. 4. View video in VST media player when using Windows Media Player. 5. Increase the target resolution of the video with no sharp edges and no distortions. 6. Make sure not to exceed the video resolution of your computer monitor. 7. Use the "Test Camera" button to test the video. 1. Some games are displayed in VST media player. You can use the VST media player if your video is saved in QuickTime format. 2. If your video is saved in H.264 format and you are using Windows Media Player or a media player that is compatible with H.264, you may not see all the videos. 3. Choose the settings you want and then press the "OK" button. 4. Then close WMP and load the video into VST media player. 5. Then click the "Test Camera" button to check if your video is normal. 6. If everything is normal and the auto detection of file information is correct, then you can do the check below. 7. If you use Nero Video, you can use the default settings (except the volume settings). 8. If you use Klite Player, you can use "Progressive Mode". The video frame will be displayed in a continuous manner for the correct aspect ratio. 9. If your computer has a GPU, you can try to use the dedicated GPU (except in Steam). When you play video, it's hard to control the game from two computers. Why do I use Crossfire? "CrossFire" is an advanced game feature that enables you to have 2 GPUs for games that need to use multi-core processing. By using "CrossFire", you will get better performance that is close to a single GPU, in some cases even a little more than double. With "CrossFire", you can also have 2 different desktop screens, side by side, for gaming on two big monitors. In addition, you can enjoy even more higher performance with 3 different PCs with 2 GPUs. However, the Crossfire feature requires graphic cards with AMD's CrossFire technology. For example, the AMD Radeon HD 4870 graphics card with the CrossFire technology can be used with another AMD Radeon HD 4870 graphics card. If your PC has two graphics cards, you can use either one with Proton Radiotherapy: which should be the first option? ==

External beam radiotherapy (EBRT) can be used to irradiate solid tumours and lympho-hematopoietic neoplasms in diverse anatomical sites. EBRT has a good safety profile, even if high doses are delivered to normal tissues through radiation delivery. More recently, the technique of stereotactic body radiotherapy (SBRT) has proven to be a valuable alternative to EBRT, especially in radioresistant tumour sites, as the sparing of healthy tissues makes use of SBRT a viable option for breast and prostate cancer, particularly in the very elderly, as well as head and neck carcinoma (HNC). Although its mechanism of action has not been fully clarified, proton therapy (PT) can be an attractive alternative to EBRT, because of several intrinsic advantages. Clinical experience in PT has shown a very high degree of accuracy and spatial accuracy in a fractionated scheme, which favors a reduction in integral dose to critical organs, thus sparing normal tissue. A more interesting aspect of PT is based on the difference in doses delivered to the target, if compared to photons. This fact is certainly related to the physical dosimetry parameters and to the range of protons within the target volume. Indeed, a number of experimental investigations demonstrated that the relative biological effectiveness (RBE) of protons, with respect to that of photons, depends on the energy and dose fractional deposition (DF) in the target, as reported in other studies.^{^[[@R1]--[@R4]]^} It is known that by using proton radiotherapy, the RBE of proton beams can be controlled according to the starting dose of the therapy. A high-energy (166 MeV) peak of protons guarantees a large RBE of protons at low dose, while a low-energy (55 MeV) peak of protons guarantees a high RBE of protons at high dose. However, any comparison between PT and EBRT must take into account the fact that proton therapy, like any physical therapy, cannot be simply regarded as a lower-dose solution against EBRT. Indeed, the clinical efficiency of PT is mainly based on the induced biological effects by radiation, which differ from those of photons. This effect is based on the interaction
