Widget is a lightweight Yahoo! widget designed with a single goal in mind: to help users launch searches on Google directly from their desktop. It boasts a clean and intuitive layout that allows you to perform most operations with just a few clicks. The gadget lets you select the search language from a preset list, namely English, Japanese, Greek, Swedish, Arabic, French, Portuguese, and others. Basically, it proves to be extremely easy to work with this tool, as you only need to type in the desired text, and it automatically displays the search results via your default web browser. Other options offered by the Yahoo! environment are represented by the possibility to prevent the windows from being dragged, set the opacity level, and ignore mouse events. What's more, you can hide or close the widget, and move it to any area of the desktop. Since it doesn't comprise many configuration settings, even rookies can master the entire process with just a few clicks. During our testing we have noticed that Google Search Engine

Widget carries out a task very quickly. On the downside, it hasn't been updated for a while, so it may cause computability issues on newer operating systems. As it would be expected from such a small utility, it remains light on system resources, so it doesn't burden the overall performance of the computer, nor interfere with other programs' functionality. To sum things up, Google Search Engine Widget offers a simple software solution when it comes to helping you perform searches on Google without having to open your web browser. It can be easily configured and installed by all types of users, regardless of their experience level.
