PHP I was asked recently how to check if the textboxes have any values and if so, generate a confirmation that the user has not left all fields empty. I used a nested IF statement to solve the problem. If there is a better way to do the same thing, I'd be interested in hearing it. Here's what I did to check for empty fields and generate a thank you message if all the fields are not empty: if ((!empty($_POST['name'])) && (!empty($_POST['address'])) && (!empty($_POST['phone'])) && (!empty($_POST['email'])) && (!empty($_POST['comment'])) && (!empty($_POST['submit']))); { echo
" Thank you for your post. Your message has been submitted. "; echo "
