Theoretical and experimental studies on the N-H...O, N-H...F, and C-H...O hydrogen bond interactions in the neutral and cationic benzamide and related systems. The charge-assisted hydrogen bond (CAHB) is a weak non-covalent interaction with the general characteristics of hydrogen bonds but with a negligible covalent nature. In this work, the properties of the CAHB interactions of the title compounds are studied theoretically at B3LYP/6-31G(d,p) level of theory. The bond energies of the studied af5dca3d97

I've been researching some resume sites, but I haven't found any that really stand out. If there are any HNers who have resumes they would be willing to share, I would be very interested in hearing about them. ===== shearnie For me, I just use LinkedIn and make sure I include the most recent projects I have worked on in my profile. This is in addition to work history, skills, career objectives, and skills. You can also include job postings, connections, and articles you have published if you have been working in the specific field for awhile. If you are in a specific technology field (in which you are creating an interest) make sure your profile is targeted to that field. ~~~ squilliam Exactly what I was thinking. Those are exactly the kind of things I was looking for. ----- valarauca1 You could submit it to every job board in existence, this would be your bible, an example of what you are capable of, etc. Or just post it on your favorite forums and get instant feedback. Ask them how they would rate it. ----- cleaver Use a service like

GAME: NOTE: All games in this series are available now. TAKE ON EXHIBIT A GAME: Online games, being the newest medium for gaming, are just now gaining the attention they deserve. A few months ago, few games could be played online. Nowadays, hundreds of online games are in operation. From cards to RPGs, which have been popular for years, to new games, some of which are only just getting started, it seems as though virtually every genre has an online version. Fortunately, there are also a lot of games that don
