Because an unexpired and undisbursed mortgage on personal property does not constitute an existing “debt” under the MGDCA, the statutory definition does not apply. Indeed, the initial language of the MGDCA already defines “debt” in a manner that clearly excludes mortgages: “As used in this chapter, unless the context otherwise requires, ‘debt’ or ‘debts’ means an obligation... incurred by the person claiming the lien...” § 35-11-102(14), MCA. In contrast, an “obligation” is defined as “an engagement to do or not to do some future act either as creditor or as debtor.” § 2-101(6), MCA. Thus, a mortgage is a liability or obligation that “occurs subsequent to the incurrence of the debt.” 4 Di-Etch, Inc. v. Diversified Fin.
