This brutal lack of empathy and empathy training, while admirable, is also entirely destructive. Empathy, it's been found, is the strongest motivator of empathy (people more easily show empathy towards a subject whom they have empathy for). So in order to generate empathy for the Other, it's necessary to empathize first with the Other in the first place. You might be thinking, why on earth would you EVER need to call a journalist "shithead"? From a PR standpoint, it's not best to do this. It's not best to call a journalist "shithead" in person, because it's often taken as a sign of superiority and threatening. It's not best to do so over the phone, because it's hard to do it with
